TAMMANY'S DEFEAT

Talk of Former President for Leader Again. Revived.

MAN OF THE HOUR, SAY REPUBLICANS

Sharp Schism Is Noted Between the Colonel and Governor Hughes.

By J. C. WELLIVER.

Following the defeat of Tammany In New York, and the development of serious probability that the Republican party will be subjected to a general reorganization in that State, there is re-port of a serious movement to induce Cel. Theodore Roosevelt, upon his re-turn from Africa, to accept the party leadership in the Empire State. New York politicians who have been impressed with the breakdown of the old organization in their State, are considering whether any other man than the late President can hold together the the late President can hold together the various elements and restore anything like harmony. The New York city bosses, Woodruff and Parsons in the lead, are not expected to become enthusiastic over the prospect of being superseded. Parsons, however, has on his hands a lively feud with the up-State Republican leaders, which threatens the party with a bitter fight for control. Parsons cpenly charged that the up-State people assumed the obligation to repay Tammany for its support of Cannon last March, when the Cannon rules were readopted in the National House.

Parsons Must Fight. In making that charge, Parsons per-fectly understood that he had stepped outside all the proprieties of the game as the "regulars" play it, and that there would be nothing thereafter except fight for his life. He took the chance deliberately enough, willing to risk the outcome. It is explained, however, that some other Republicans, with less love of a fight than Mr. Parsons possesses, and more conservative disposition to keep parly interests in mind, are not so anxious for that sort of a row.

Woodruff, the boss of Brooklyn, has commonly played with the up-State leaders. He wants to go to the Senate, and he has always felt that his line of least resistance lay in co-operation with the local leaders scattered about the rural section of the State; the men who dictate the delegations from their respective localities, and then vote them at the State convention. Parsons defined them all at the State convention a year ago, when he took New York county into the gathering and voted it straight for Governor Hughes, forcing Hughes upon the unwilling State managers. They have not been friendly to him since; and when he began fighting back, with the Cannon-Tammany-Albany charges, the split became more serious than ever. of a fight than Mr. Parsons possesses

Has Better So Far. Thus far Parsons has had the better of the argument. He forced the nomination of Hughes last year, and this year his fusion ticket has carried the city, except only the mayor. Parsons, then, has little need to call for help. He is in better shape to make his fight than he ever was hefere.

He is in better shape to make his fight than he ever was before.

But the up-State people would vastly prefer the rule of an acknowledged superior, to that of Parsons. Senator Root was looked upon as the coming state leader, when he was elected to the Senate. But he took a very unimportant part in the recent municipal campaign, and the impression has gained force in New York that he will never become an active political manager. This is attibuted partly to his personal distaste for the duties, and partly to the fact that his business and professional affiliations in the past have not been such as to make his leadership entirely desirable.

It was common belief during the city campaign that Mr. Root kept himself in the background because his former affiliations with the Ryan interests, together with the fact that those same Ryan interests were deeply concerned in the outcome of the traction puzzle involved in the city election, would have occasioned criticism of active participation on his part. It was generally believed, too, that the fusion forces were strengthened by the fact that the Senator took this attitude.

"The Man of the Hour." Colonel Roosevelt is held by many people to be the only man who is of the right caliber and character to handle all the forces at this time. Whether he wants to be Senator or not is another feature of the matter. Some time before he left the White House Mr. Roosevelt confessed that he would like to be a United States Senator, and that next to that position he would like to occupy the New York governorship again. The Senatorship is the natural destiny for him, and without much doubt he could secure it if he would undertake the general State leadership. Governor Hughes comes out of this fall's election stronger than ever before, but it is still by no means certain that he has the backing necessary to force his program through the State Legislature. Roosevelt himself has never indorsed the direct-nominations part of the Hughes program, which right now is its critical feature. The former President, in fact, does not believe in that program. This furnishes a sharp schism between him and Hughes, but it is not so serious as might be imagined, for even under a direct-nominations plan there is no doubt that Colonel Roosevelt would carry a Senatorial primary if he chose to be a candidate.

The present inquiry is whether Colonel Roosevelt wou be willing to accept the State letership if it were tendered to him; a dit he general belief is that he would. He is expected to be back in the U jed States about June of 1916, which will be in ample time to decide whether he shall take the leadership, and whether he will be a candidate for the Senate to succeed Depew. other feature of the matter. Some time before he left the White House Mr.
